About Your Home

It is possible to achieve some startling results from the lowly burlap seed bag.Burlap material is being used to make attractive clothes, sofa,household items, drapes, slip covers and as wall covering in the place of wallpaper.

It is done with Al-fabric dyes and some simple needlework. The bags must be washed and in some cases lightened with color remover. The burlap can then be dyed. Fabric dyes come in fifty colors or more.

The burlap bags for conversion can be either salvaged feed bags or new ones purchased at very little cost.

Preparing the bags for dyeing is simple. open the seams by pulling the thread of the chain stitch and smooth the raw edges on the sewing machine to prevent raveling. To wash, place the burlap in soap and soak for a couple hours to remove the printing. Rinse and the material is ready for the dye-debath.

If you want to lighten the natural burlap color in order to dye the fabric a light color, just put the burlap in a color-remover solution and follow the direction on the box. use fresh solution for each bag. However, don't use the washing machine to remove color since the large amount of water would dilute the color-remover and weaken its action.

The dyeing process is the same as for other fabrics. Use about one ounce of dye to six quarts of water for the average-size bag.

COMMENT ON SPORTS
BY PETE FRITCHIE

WASHINGTON, D. C. — In the American League about this time of year the pennant race is usually narrowed down to ab least two or three contenders. Often the New York Yankees have already asseted their authority by this time and the surprises for the reason are over.

But not this year, The Yankees are having trouble and four or five teams are trying to make noises like pennant contenders. The most surprising of these teams is the Los Angeles Angels, who were supposed to go nowhere this year.

But when the traditional July 4th rolled around the Angels were in here trying to scare the leaders. So were the Minnesota Twins, the next biggest surprise in the league. In addition, there was still hope in Detroit and Baltimore — that the Tigers and Orioles might yet win out.

And the Cleveland Indians, another surprise contender, have been doing best of all the surprise contenders, having — earlier in the year — swept four from the Yankees. The Chicago White Sox are a solid club and still have a chance.

The question is: Will the Yankees pull away from all these upstart clubs, as usual, or will there be a race down to the wire there year — in traditional National League style?" It is a hard one to answer. The Tigers should not fold since they were rated a contender and have been crippled with injuries.

Chicago, under Al Lopez, might get hot — they did late last season, for a time. The Indians could remain in there, too. They have the second best all-time record in the league and might make a race out of it almost any year. The Twins and Los Angeles Angels seem more suspect. The Orioles don't figure as a pennant winner but should be rated an outside chance.

Why have the Yanks been stumbling? For one thing Louis Arroyo, star reliefer of the 1961 championship team, has been off form. Mickey Mantle has been hurt. Whitey Ford, the key man in 1961 — not Mantle or Marip — has been out for a time.

If the club is sound from here on in, andof Ford is not lost. The Yankees are going to be hard to beat. However, Manager Ralph Houk has shown signs of strain and, on one occasion, displayed a loss of control which was surprising. This sort of thing can hurt any ball club and it hurt the Yankees.

Houk could win the pennant or lose it with his behavior. There seems to be plenty of clubs to lose it too, if he plays it that way.

Further information on these loans may be obtained at the county office of the Farmers Home Administration located at Farmville. Pinnter F. Evans is the County Supervisor. Mr. Evans also has part-time office hours at Appomattox at the ASCS office on Tuesday mornings from 9:00 to 9:30 a. m.

FASHION NOW

A trend towards shorter hair is natied in the recent hair-fos worn by many fashionable women. Up in front with deep angled waves, these new styles have displaced the bee hive and long bob to a great extent.

Prints have come into their own once more and are particularly beautiful in silks suits or with matching dresses and jackets. The solid color sheath worn with a printed coat is good.

Lovely roses in green, lavendar gold are splashed across black or muted backgrounds. One very pretty suit has green leaves sprinkled across a white background.

An evening formal of jersey print is fashioned with a draped skirt and long sleeves.

SOCIAL SECURITY

By MARY B. BOOKER

Area employers are reminded that their reports of employee wages are due by July 31.

The reports must be made to the Internal Revenue Service and must cover the 3-month period April through June.

Some employers, especially new ones, mistakenly feel they do not have to submit a report when they have only one employee or if the amount of wages paid is small. This misunderstanding may cause the employer to have to pay a penalty and interest later. The law specifies that the wages of all workers in jobs under social security must be reported regardless of how small the amount and even if only one person is employed. This law applies to employers of household help, as well as to business employers.

In general, if a person—including a maid, handyman, cleaning woman, or baby sitter — has been paid as much as $50 in cash wages during the 3-month period, April through June, a report of these earnings should be made to the Internal Revenue Service by July 31. In addition, earnings reports should be made on farm workers who received less than $50 in cash wages. More details on reporting the earnings of a farm worker can be obtained from either an Internal Revenue or a social security office.

A special, ready-to-mail form — number 942 — is available for employers of household workers in making earnings reports. These forms can be secured from an Internal Revenue Office and take only a few minutes to complete.

Employers and employees are reminded that reporting of earnings is important since future social security benefits to the worker and his family are based on earnings credited to the worked's social security account.

More complete information and necessary reporting forms may be obtained from the nearest Internal Revenue office.
